

FEW ACCIDENTS AND NO FIRES

Sane July 4th Celebration Here Results In No Serious Injuries

Accidents in Rhinelander on July 4th were fortunately confined to a small number and as near as can be learned no one was seriously injured. Sane methods in celebrating the nation's birthday are held responsible for this happy result.

Mrs. Willis Livesey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Segerstrom, was the victim of rather a rare accident 4th of July evening. While standing by the side of her father's automobile on Thayer street, watching the fireworks display, she was struck in the abdomen by an exploded rocket, which dropped from the sky with terrific speed. Her injuries, while painful, are not believed critical. She is confined to the Segerstrom home on N. Brown street. Had the projectile struck Mrs. Livesey on the head there is reason to believe that she would have been killed.

Contrary to reports Mr. Segerstrom declares that he holds no one responsible for the accident and does not intend to commence legal proceedings against any persons or organizations.

Little Thomas Johnson was rendered unconscious when thrown from a carriage on Conro street. His father, John Johnson, and Thomas Redfield Sr., also occupants of the rig, were slightly bruised. The boy is reported to be resting easy at his home on the south side and no ill consequences are anticipated. The accident was caused by the horse becoming frightened at a passing automobile.

Carl Larson, driver, and other occupants of a Mitchell car had a miraculous escape from injury when the car crashed into a telephone pole on N. Thayer street. Mrs. Sam Anderson, one of the occupants, was thrown from her seat, but not hurt. The pole was shattered by the force of the collision.

No Fires On 4th Throughout the entire day not one alarm was rung in at the city fire stations. The only time that the equipment was brought into service was for the exhibition run in the evening.

Chief J. D. Cole of the fire department, expressed himself as pleased with this record. He said it speaks well for the precaution exercised by Rhinelander people in guarding against fires at a time when danger prevails.

The elimination of the old time giant fire crackers has had a tendency to reduce the number of fire alarms on July 4th, for several years past in all cities of the country.

MEET AT SUPERIOR

J. J. Verage, county clerk, returned Saturday from Superior where he attended the eleventh annual convention of Wisconsin County Clerks' association.

The meeting was very successful and the clerks enjoyed every minute of their stay at the head of lakes. "Silver Joe" Konkki, mayor of Superior, welcomed the visitors and Mayor Hall of Green Bay, responded.

Mr. Verage says that Superior is one of the most prosperous cities he has ever visited and calls it a pocket edition of Chicago.

On all sides can be observed evidences of enterprise and activity. The business men are endowed with the real get-together spirit and are for Superior first, last and always.

"CHARLEY CHAPLIN" CAIN Lloyd Cain, Rhinelander's famous Charley Chaplin impersonator, appeared on the streets July 4th and added greatly to the merriment of the day. When it comes to putting on the Chaplin stuff Lloyd is there stronger than a mustard plaster and as an attraction draws about as well. He has the Chaplin clothes, the Chaplin walk and last but not least a real Chaplin moustache.

When the Al. G. Barnes circus was here the management desired to engage Lloyd for the remainder of the season but he refused their offer on the ground that he does not care to do clowning for a living.

CARD OF THANKS To the many kind friends who assisted us during the illness and at the death of our beloved husband and father we wish to express our sincere gratitude. Mrs. Theodore Johnson and Son Tord Johnson.

CAPITAL CAUSES MEXICAN TROUBLE

Greed Of American Bandits Responsible For Present Conditions

(By Rev. Fred R. Wedge)

Most of the information we have concerning Mexico is influenced by connection with the American capitalistic interests in Mexico, or by border residence or political wire pulling. The great bulk of American people do not understand what all this Mexican fuss is about, only when they read of the Vera Cruz incident, the massacre at Santa Isabel or Villa's raid at Columbus. They have formed a mental picture of Mexican bandits, murder, rapine, pillage, graft, assassination and murderous politics and have come to the conclusion that patriotism demands that our soldier boys go down to Mexico and shoot the grease out of the greaser bandits, police the entire country, until the bandit gangs are all wiped out and the railroads, villages and cities freed from fear of attack. It would mean the expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars on our part and the loss of thousands of splendid young American boys. By controlling the administration of ports and custom houses of Mexico we could in time of course get our money back but we could never get back our boys.

The Carranzistas, Villistas and Zapatistas are not the only bandits in Mexico. When the writer was in Mexico he learned that the Cienfuegos, the ruling class of Mexico, own about all the country now owned by the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, the Pierpont Morgan interests of New York, the Guggenheims, the Southern Pacific Railroads, the Pierce Oil Co., the Texas Oil Co., the Gulf Refining Co., the Port Lobos Oil Co., which is really the American Tobacco Trust, the Freeport Fuel Co., which is controlled by the Freeport Sulphur Co., and the Tampico Oil Co., which is the John Hays Hammond interests. Compared with these bandits Villa would have to blush.

They have hogged the best lands of Mexico at a price ranging from twenty-five cents an acre to sums the amount of which would set a man in jail in this country for obtaining goods under false pretenses. These American interests in Mexico are clamoring for the United States to intervene and save not their lives but their oil fields, their coal fields, their silver mines and their thousands of acres of rich farming lands and forests of timber. Their investment is not worth two cents on a dollar today but if by some way, through cheap politics, the crying of patriotism, the playing of bands and preparedness parades these American bandits can stir up enough feeling to bring about a war with Mexico then their interests will be worth a half a billion dollars. Yes, the American capitalists in Mexico want war and they want it bad enough to even encourage their bandit brothers the Villistas and Zapatistas to make occasional raids over the border in the hope that our nation may intervene and save what?—this half billion of dollars.

What's the remedy—police the border with a strong standing army, which we should have done three years ago and let these Mexican and American bandits, the Rockefeller, the Guggenheims, the Hammonds and all the rest of the capitalistic crew, who are tarred with the same stick, of like kidnap, fight it out, and may the best bandit win but let us keep our manhood for a better work than protecting a lot of modern highwaymen.

Over 800 people attended the picnic held in the city park under the auspices of the Social Democratic party Sunday.

Games, contests and other amusements were provided for the big crowd and all appeared to immensely enjoy the occasion.

A feature of the afternoon was an address by Oscar Ameringer, noted Socialist lecturer and writer. Mr. Ameringer's subject, "Socialism and the Labor Question," was handled in a logical vein and he brought out many convincing points. His argument impressed his hearers as being reasonable and fair to all sides.

Mr. Ameringer has a cottage on Lake George, this county, where he spends the hot weather months.

ELKS CELEBRATION IS GRAND AND GLORIOUS

Rhinelander's 1916 Independence Day celebration is generally conceded to have been the grandest, most glorious and, in every particular the most successful event of its kind ever attempted in this city.

The Elks, who supervised the day's big program, demonstrated plainly that when it comes to providing folks with snappy entertainment and an all around good time they have it all over any three ring circus in the land. They are deserving of a vote of gratitude. The weather man, is also entitled to no little credit for the brand of weather he dished up for the occasion. The old bay maker shone in all his splendor throughout the day and while he made things a trifle hot no one was heard to complain.

The first number on the program and one of the real features of the day was the monster Preparedness Parade which wound its way through the principal thoroughfares between 10:30 o'clock and noon. Never before has such a long line of men, women and children been seen in parade in this city. It is estimated that over 1,000 people participated in the procession. The spirit of Americanism was strongly manifest—it is safe to state that few cities in Wisconsin; the size of Rhinelander, had such a magnificent and stupendous patriotic demonstration. Old glory was displayed by every participant and banners with timely and patriotic phrases were very numerous. Nearly every fraternal organization and society in this city was represented. Crews from the various mills and factories were in line. The Rhinelander band, which headed the parade, furnished spirited march music as did also the life and drum brigade with Dr. J. T. Elliott beating the big bass drum in regular Scotch style. (Al. G. Barnes' drummer take notice.)

There was also a splendid showing of floats, appropriately and attractively decorated, together with the usual clowns and other laughable characters. It was some parade and showed up the fact in a most convincing way that Rhinelander is for preparedness.

In the afternoon at 1:45 there was an automobile parade to the fair grounds, where the day's exercises were conducted. Scores of beautifully decorated cars appeared in this parade. C. P. Crosby's car was pronounced by the judges from the Advancement Association to be worthy of the first prize.

The program at the fair grounds opened with the reading of the Declaration of Independence by Al. G. Frogner of the News staff, who delivered the historic document in a manner, which brought out his ability as a public reader.

Mayor Grant V. Clark, as the speaker of the day, made an eloquent address which rung with patriotism and inspired his hearers to a high tension. The enthusiasm which greeted Mr. Clark's remarks showed that he was talking to a crowd of real Americans, true blue to their Uncle Sam.

Following the mayor's speech was held races, contests and sports of several kinds, all of which were highly entertaining and immensely pleased the spectators. Horse races, pony races, foot races, fat men's race and etc., filled the program.

A base ball game between the first and second city teams resulted in a score of 7 to 13 in favor of the first team.

On the down town streets in the evening there was another auto parade, followed by a thrilling exhibition run by the Rhinelander fire department. There was also a first class band concert and Mrs. W. E. Vaughan, who is a talented vocalist, rendered a charming solo.

The display of fire works from the Davenport street bridge was elaborate, there being many pieces of exceptional beauty and brilliancy. A grand ball at the Armory, which was attended by the largest assemblage of dancers ever seen in the hall, brought the day's pleasures to a merry close.

The financial proceeds from the various concessions, sale of flags and the ball, after all expenses had been allowed, reached several hundred dollars which will be sent to the members of Co. L in Camp Douglas.

WRESTLE 5 HOURS WITHOUT A FALL

Strangler Lewis Has Long Match With Joe Stecker In Omaha, Neb.

For five hours Strangler Ed. Lewis, (Bob Fredericks, formerly of Rhinelander) and Joe Stecker wrestled without a fall in Omaha, Tuesday night. In this match Lewis is easily convinced 18,000 people that for cleverness and power of endurance he is entitled to a place among the world's greatest wrestlers.

Following is an Omaha despatch describing the bout: Omaha, Neb., July 4.—After five hours of wrestling, part of which was done by the lamps of an automobile which was driven near to them, the match between Joe Stecker and Strangler Ed. Lewis was tonight declared a draw. At the end of four hours work, as dark drew near, Referee Ed. Smith of Chicago proposed that the match be temporarily discontinued tonight and resumed Wednesday. To this Stecker readily agreed but Lewis insisted that the match be fought to a finish tonight. After another hour's work the referee called the match a draw and left the ring.

The match was held in the fair grounds and was witnessed by 18,000 spectators. The gate receipts amounted to more than $30,000. Stecker was the aggressor all the way through but was never able to get close enough to Lewis to get his scissors hold. Once he got the scissors on the arm of his opponent but not a single time did he get his legs around Lewis' body.

After the wrestling had continued three hours the crowd became disgusted and for a quarter of an hour hurled cushions onto the mat. Both wrestlers and the referee were struck time after time and police were finally called in to quiet the disturbance.

HOLD UP ALEX'S JOB It has been anticipated that on Saturday, July 1, Alexander Krembs would take the twenty-seven steps from his drug store to the postoffice and assume the duties of postmaster, succeeding D. E. Frost. This may yet come to pass but if so his commission must come from Washington prior to that time. Although Mr. Krembs' nomination was confirmed by the senate and his bond has been forwarded to Washington and approved, and he has taken the oath of office, his commission, signed by one Woodrow Wilson, has not been received, and until it is received he cannot enter upon the duties and enjoy the $2800 a year emoluments of the office.—Stevens Point Journal.

COUNCIL MEETING JULY 11 The regular July meeting of the city council was postponed from Tuesday evening, July 4th, until Tuesday evening July 11th.

CHILD'S SKULL IS FOUND IN WOODS

Believed To Be That of Helen Klus, of Armstrong Creek, Who Was Lost

Our readers will remember an account of a little child, Helen Klus, being lost at Armstrong Creek the 26th of April, and the failure of all efforts to find her. Search for her has been kept up intermittently ever since until Wednesday the 28th of June, when her father, Paul Klus, while searching the woods found the skull of a child which he believes to be hers.

Sheriff White, Justice Lyle Carter, district attorney Dawson and Dr. Decker of Crandon, were summoned to Armstrong Creek Wednesday evening and opened an inquest which was adjourned until July 6th, at Crandon. The sheriff will bring the witnesses here for the inquest.

It is a peculiar circumstance that only the skull of the child was found. No other bones or clothing were discovered. The little skull lay as it placed by the hand of someone, about an arm's length from a well worn trail down an old logging road, about a half mile from the family home. There were no marks upon the skull that would indicate it had been carried to the place where it was found.

It is known to those who frequent the woods, that the remains of a human being or animal left in the woods, are always gnawed by foxes, skunks and other animals. The skull found at Armstrong Creek hasn't a mark upon it.

The parents of the lost girl think a neighbor knows something of her disappearance and it is likely she will be questioned at the inquest on July 6th in this city.—Crandon Republican.

GUARDSMEN TAKE GOVERNMENT OATH

Camp Douglas, Wis., July 1.—Every member of the Wisconsin militia not previously rejected because of physical disabilities was mustered into the service of the United States Friday afternoon.

The day was the biggest in point of accomplishment since emancipation. For some reason not made public, but evidently pointing to a rush order to be ready to depart. The United States recruiting officers got busy at noon. Six hours later every company in the First, Second and Third regiments had been sworn in by Capt. Lorraine T. Richardson, working with the First regiment; Capt. Robert Westcott, Third regiment, and Lieut. Fred Carrothers, Second regiment. The men were sworn in by battalions and the work progressed rapidly. Officers took the oath first.

The Second and Third regiments were mustered into service without having passed the government physical test. It was intimated at headquarters that in case of emergency the medical test would be waived until troops arrive at their destination.

The very atmosphere in Camp Douglas was filled with indications of early departure. There was a state of excitement among officers which they found hard to suppress and the feeling emanated to the ranks.

Railroads received orders to have trains at the disposal of the government at a moment's notice. Supply companies received instructions as to their duties aboard trains and have been told to be ready for the word. It is admitted that the Wisconsin brigade will be moving in less than a week.

Not one man refused to sign his name to the muster roll. In the morning eight members of Co. H. Sheboygan, balked, but were placed in the guardhouse and later acquiesced.

The order received here instructing headquarters to take along rejected men, was supplemented by a second order that such men should be discharged and sent home. Many old men will be affected. The total discharges will not be heavy and in the First regiment not more than 15 or 200 men will be released. Some companies came through the examination with only two or three men rejected. Others had from fifteen to twenty rejected.

EXCELLENT BAND MUSIC Many compliments were heard for the Rhinelander band July 4th. The band was certainly at its best and gave a quality of music which was nothing less than high class. The citizens feel justly proud of its excellent musical organization.

VISIT SOLDIER BOYS Among the Rhinelander people who visited the soldier boys at Camp Douglas Saturday and Sunday were Mrs. E. K. Riek, Mr. Frank Duffy, Mrs. J. Brunz, Mr. Irene Peterson, Martin Anderson and Arthur Johnson.

They found the members of Co. L well and happy, but a trifle lonely for some relatives and friends Rhinelander.

ARREST MYSTERY MAN AT APPLETON

"Detective" St. John Gets In Bad For Carrying Concealed Weapons

There are some Rhinelander people who will read with interest, the following article from Friday's Appleton Daily Post. St. John, the sleuth who is the principal in the story, spent a number of weeks in Rhinelander a year or more ago and was generally regarded as "A man of mystery."

"Alexander St. John, a Pinkerton detective who has been at work in Appleton for some time, was placed under arrest last evening charged with carrying concealed weapons. This morning at ten o'clock he was arraigned in municipal court. Bail bond was furnished and he was released, his hearing having been set for next Thursday."

"W. J. Burke, labor agitator who has been here for several months, was in court at the time St. John was arraigned. Apparently the action of the court did not meet with his approval for he was overheard a short time later by Judge Spencer to make a remark something to this effect: "Wait until election and we'll get him." Judge Spencer sent an officer after Burke and demanded he be brought into court. After finding out Burke's name and business here he reprimanded him and cautioned him that if he ever made a similar intimidating remark he would give him a change to spend a few weeks in the work house jail."

"The complaining witness against St. John is Paul Kobel, a striker, who claims St. John drew a revolver from his pocket while engaged in an altercation on College avenue near the armory at about 7 o'clock last night. The revolver was presented in court. It was found to be loaded with blank cartridges."

"It is understood that St. John has secured information regarding the identity of two of the men said to have participated in the theft Wednesday night of the automobile owned by Robert Kellar, employe of the Interlake Pulp and Paper Co. If his information is reliable, arrests will probably be made in the near future."

ANOTHER EARLY RESIDENT GONE

Theodore Hoffman Johnson died at his home 426 Mason street, at 11 o'clock Saturday evening. The funeral was conducted from his home at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon under auspices of S. H. & E. F. of which order deceased was a member. Rev. J. A. Sarnemo officiated.

Mr. Johnson was born in Stegen, northern part of Norway, on the 26th day of April, 1833. He immigrated to the U. S. in 1881. He was married to Miss Ingelborg Johnson at Whitehall, Mich. in the fall of 1881; they came to Rhinelander 1889, and have always lived here except the last three years, which were spent in Astoria, Ore., moving back to this city last spring.

Mr. Johnson is survived by a wife and two sons, Theodore Johannes of this city, and Toralf of Duluth, Minn.; one daughter, Hanna, died 18 years ago.

Mr. Johnson was one of the oldest Scandinavian residents of Rhinelander and leaves a large circle of friends who learn of his death with great sorrow.

BEES FROM SOUTH

G. C. Chase received a consignment of 25 pounds of bees from Louisiana Tuesday morning. The little honey makers were shipped by express and arrived here in perfect condition. According to Mr. Chase each pound averaged about 4000 bees.

Mr. Chase displayed the bees in front of the postoffice for about an hour and he interested a large audience with an instructive talk on the insects. Mr. Chase is one of the most successful bee men in northern Wisconsin.

Internal Revenue Reports
The report of the Internal Revenue Commissioner for the ten years ending April 30, 1916, shows a decrease in the revenue from distilled spirits, and, as might be expected, the liquor interests are the figures to bolster up their argument, "Prohibition does not work."

Reason for this increase is not in the greater consumption of whisky by the people of the States, but in various changes here and abroad. Unusually vigorous measures have been taken by the department to compel certain manufacturers to pay the required taxes on their product. The good work of Commissioner Osborn in this direction is being reported.

And, the large quantity of whisky shipped from this country to take place of the British product now barred from shipment because of the European war, noted in the "increased consumption." During the year ending April 30, 1915, exports amounted to 1,663,000 gallons; during the months, July 1915, to March, 1916, 850,000 gallons were exported.

There has been a steady decline in the supply of imported liquor due to difficulties of transportation. Some of the foreign distilleries have opened branches in this country, and the taxes on their output now added to the internal revenue of the United States.

Reasons might be given, but suffice to show how alert the department is to seize any apparent advantage furnished by figures to prove the public is not to be deceived. It is not the province of the Internal Revenue department to interpret or to explain where or how tax-paid liquor is actually consumed.

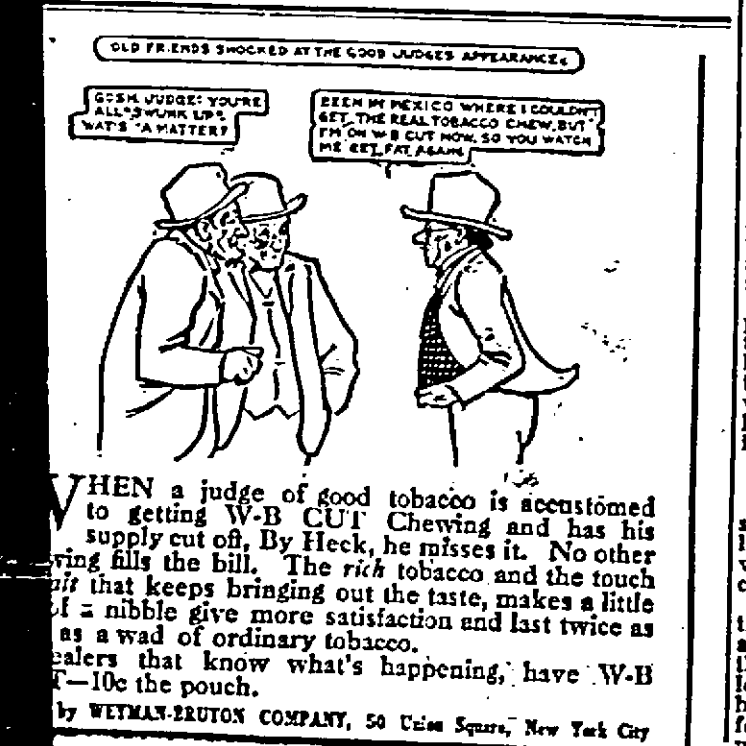

Brewers and distillers because they are loudly claiming that the Internal Revenue department is more lenient in its prohibition than under the law, shall find them this fall with the drys; we shall win during the anti-election working and spending millions to make six more of the territory of Alaska.

LITTLE CHATS ABOUT POULTRY

(By G. E. Conkey)

During the summer months shade for both chicks and fowls is a real necessity as it is extremely injurious to continually expose the birds to the rays of the burning sun.

It is true that the ancestors of most of our breeds of chickens are supposed to have come from a warm country, still the domestic fowl does not seem to be very well equipped to withstand high temperatures. It is well to remember that fowls do not have sweat glands, such as the horse has, to help keep the body cool. The only means they have of reducing the body temperature is in panting, and this of course is wasted energy.

If, therefore, you neglect to provide shade for your birds you are sure to lessen the egg production as well as impair their vigor and general usefulness.

Small chicks, ducks and geese are particularly liable to suffer from overheating, resulting from failure to provide shade. These young birds require a rather high temperature in brooding but when the heat gets beyond a certain point they are disastrously affected by it. Failure to provide shade on a hot day or the use of coops exposed to the sun without proper ventilation may in a short time cause the death of large numbers of chicks or render them quite useless. When they are a month or two old, chicks can stand more heat without these serious results.

For this reason hatch most of your chicks before the coming of hot weather. Late hatches should not be attempted when there is any danger of over heating in coops or where chicks cannot have an abundance of shade.

There is ample shade on the average farm, and when possible coops and houses should be arranged or located so that they are protected from the sun during the hottest hours of the day. An orchard makes an ideal place for the chickens, since it serves as protection against high winds as well as furnishing an abundance of shade.

In laying out a poultry plant, the planting of trees should be looked after at once, if there are not already plenty of trees on the land. You might just as well plant fruit trees for they will then serve a double purpose. Such a combination of fruit and poultry is good and there are many poultry raisers who have found that it pays well to work these two lines together. The plan is, however, by no means as widely used as it should be. It takes a few years for the trees to get started, of course, therefore there should be some other means of supplying shade in the meantime.

When poultry houses, either large or small, are built with a board floor, they should be raised sufficiently from the ground to afford shade and shelter underneath to chicks or fowls. You will find that chicks make good use of such places when sudden storms come up in the summer. A sudden shower may send young chicks to running about excitedly looking for something to crawl under for protection quite forgetful that the proper place for them is inside their coop. They are far more likely to rush under the coop than into it and by having the coop built a few inches above the ground heavy losses from drowning will sometimes be averted.

The planting of sun flowers around poultry runs for making shade is quite common and where there are only a couple of pens together it is a good plan to plant the stalks just outside of the fence where there is no danger of the birds breaking down the young plants. When inside the run, sunflowers should be screened off until they get to growing well so as to prevent breakage.

Very attractive effects may be secured by training hardy quick growing vines to run over small buildings or on trellises or fences. On a city lot a grape arbor makes fine shade but it should be built up high otherwise the fowls may get most of the fruit. The large size and dense foliage of castor oil bean plants make them a shade producers for a poultry run.

The shade of growing plants, or in other words natural shade, is by far the best and is much preferred by the fowls but when this for any reason cannot be grown then artificial shelters must be built. In such case satisfactory results may be had with muslin or burlap covered frames. These are supported a few feet above the ground. Wooden platforms afford a more substantial shelter and if the boards are on a slant these will also serve as a protection against storms.

In breeding fancy poultry, especially with the colored varieties the molting and newly feathered birds must be well protected from the strong rays of the sun to prevent fading. The successful exhibitor never overlooks this point in the case of show stock.

The testimony is confirmed—the proof complete.
Testimony like this cannot be ignored.
J. E. Russ, 821 Wabash St., Rhinelander, says: "Hoisting logs brought on a strain in my back that resulted in backache and pains through my loins. When I lay down and in the morning when I got up, my back was always the most painful. My kidneys didn't act right and I had every reason to know that they were causing the suffering. Three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills cured the attack." (Statement given November 2, 1910.)

Here is a tip on lathing your new house that will be worth money to you. Use Byrket lath (pronounced "Burket") made of "Old Faithful" HEMLOCK. Use it inside or outside.

Hemlock Byrket lath, when in use makes a solid sheet of wood, producing a stiffer, stronger, drier, warmer wall than ordinary lath. It makes a true, smooth wall because "Old Faithful" HEMLOCK does not warp from the moisture plaster. Byrket lath holds the plaster firmly in a dovetail clinch, and saves a large proportion of the plaster which is squeezed through ordinary lath and wasted. Ask us about it.

NEWS NOTES FROM NEARBY CITIES

Iron River, Wis.—

A letter was received in this city from Iron River boy who is fighting with the British expedition Sunday from Burt Augusta, the for-ary force in Belgium, and in this letter Mr. Augusta expresses the belief that the war will end before winter—an opinion which his comrades seem to share with him. He, however, admits that there will be hard fighting before that result is obtained. The letter was written a short time after the big naval battle occurred, and Mr. Augusta said that when the full report of that battle reached the boys in the trenches it was so much more favorable than the first report that the soldiers went wild with joy and there was a hot old time around there.

New London—

Two La Crosse button factory men were here Monday and had a conference with the executive committee of the Advancement association. While no definite agreement was reached between the negotiating parties and the Advancement association, there is a strong probability that a pearl button factory may be located in this city. The factory at La Crosse has used a sample of the Wolf river clam shells and now expect to try out a whole car load. The labor to be employed is estimated at fifty hands at an average of fifteen dollars a week. These workers are employed on a piece scale. In addition to the factory workers is the force of shell fishers and their income depends much on their industry and luck as fishermen.

Antigo—

Antigo Lodge No. 231, F. and A. M., have decided to provide a ceremony for the laying of the cornerstone of the new postoffice building in this city and the Grand Lodge has been notified of their intention. It is expected that one of the officers of the Grand Lodge will be present on that occasion. The date has not been set. No announcement has been made of any plans for laying the cornerstone of the new high school building. It is probable that the matter will be taken up at the next meeting of the Board of Education.

Crandon—

Old Wausagesiek is sick. Wausagesiek is Crandon's oldest citizen, having first seen the light in the wigwam on the shore of Lake Michigan, eighty-four years ago. His Chippewa mother carried him on her back in a blanket, or paddled with him in a birch bark canoe across the lake. A natural aversion to work caused the white people to dub him "Lazy Jack." However this is his only fault, if it is a fault in an Indian. He never gets drunk, quarrels nor fights. When the other Indians get too much fire-water aboard, he stands guard and sees that they reach the wigwam safely and do not burn up after they get there. For this reason the other Indians are good to him, and white people do not forget him when the cold blasts of winter go tearing through the hills. His health has failed him lately, and he has found refuge with Jim Hardhead, an Indian friend who has a home in this city.

Ashland—

It was a bedraggled form that made its way slowly into Camp No. 17, operated by the Willow Lumber Company near Grand View, on Wednesday afternoon. Worn out almost to the point of exhaustion clothes torn to shreds and hands and feet swollen almost twice their size, Joe Rocco, aged 17, dragged himself to the camp shack. Three days and three nights, he spent in the woods, wandering aimlessly about, not knowing what fate might befall him. He was lost. Anyone who has been lost, if only for a short time, can imagine the sensation that creeps over one, while suffering this experience. Well Joe Rocco had all the sensations imaginable with many others crammed in. He is only 17 and it is a wonder that he passed through the ordeal in the manner that he did.

Scientific Farming

THE "LAND POOR" FARMER.

Farms Are Often Either Too Small or Too Large For Success.
[From "Unprofitable Acres," by J. C. McDowell, United States department of agriculture 1925 year book.]

The size of the business often has much to do toward making the farm profitable. Department of agriculture farm management records show that farms are often either too small or too large for the most successful farming. There may be too few as well as too many acres. A man may not have enough land or he may be "land poor," thereby rendering all his acres unprofitable.

A Wisconsin farmer with a large family was deeply in debt. His farm consisted of 120 acres, half of which was under the plow. The remainder was woodland and expensive to clear. For twelve years the farmer had not been quite able to meet his interest. To him the whole farm consisted of unprofitable acres. He finally decided that the farm was too small for the most efficient use of the labor available. Having an opportunity, he bought an adjoining eighty acres of cleared land, going in debt the full amount. From that time on the farm was prosperous, and in ten years the entire farm was paid for and enough additional money saved to build a good house and barn. The smaller farm had been unprofitable because the overhead expenses were too high for so small a business. In this case acres were made profitable by increasing their number.

A North Dakota farmer owned three quarter sections of land. His farm was quite heavily mortgaged, and for a number of years he had not been able to pay interest in full. His family was small, and for most of the work he had to depend on hired help. He concluded that under the circumstances he was working or trying to work too many acres. Finally he sold one quarter section and paid his debts. Seven years later he had $3,000 in the bank. In this case all the acres had previously been unprofitable because there were too many of them.

CLEANING UP THE FARM.

Profitable Business Is Done Renovating Rundown Homes.

Cleaning up the farm has been commercialized, put on a dollar and cents basis, says the Farm and Fireside. In northern Indiana there is a firm of real estate dealers that buys up rundown farms, puts a force of men on them to paint the buildings, whitewash the stables, repair the fences and generally renovate the old places until they are ready for new buyers. These buyers are usually brought in from a distance and in many instances pay an advance of from $10 to as high as $10 to the acre.

In Kankakee county, Ill., is a farmer real estate man who makes a handsome profit in putting a clean face on farms. His methods are more thorough and his results more lasting than those of the real estate firm mentioned above. He does not stop with the buildings, however, but goes much deeper in his cleaning operations. He takes the farms purchased under his own personal supervision, uses lime if necessary, drains the farms thoroughly, starts a three year rotation of corn, wheat and clover, applying commercial fertilizer in liberal amounts on both corn and wheat, and, in short, puts the farms on a paying basis. Each year he makes a profit sufficient more than to pay the interest on his investment as well as an excellent profit whenever he makes a sale. All of which goes to show that if one plans to sell a farm it pays handsomely to clean up before bringing a prospective buyer on the premises.

Diseases of Plants and Trees.
Diseases of plants do much injury from a lack of application of reliable curative methods. The most important of remedial and preventive measures combined is cleanliness. Spraying alone may be overdone, whereas when used in combination with other measures the success may be greater and the cost less.

It is estimated that in the United States the annual loss from oat smut is more than $5,000,000, from loose smut of wheat $3,000,000 and from bent or stinking smut of wheat more than $11,000,000.

SAN ANTONIO IS HISTORIC CITY

Town Where Wisconsin Militia Will Be Sent Scene Of Alamo Massacre

San Antonio, to which place the Wisconsin militia has been ordered, and to which the eyes of thousands of Wisconsin people will be turned temporarily at least, is the largest city in Texas. It was established in 1714, is approximately 140 miles from the Mexican border and has a population of about one hundred thousand. It is on the plaza of San Antonio, that the Alamo, built in 1718 as a mission church and famous in the Texan war for independence, stands. The building covers about 2½ acres and its walls are about 22 feet high and three feet in thickness. Here, February 23, 1836, Santa Anna with 4000 Mexicans shut in 151 Texans and men from the United States commanded by Col. Wm. B. Travis. Bombardment was kept up by the Mexicans for 24 hours and several assaults were repulsed. Travis sent for help but only 32 men reached him and his men suffered greatly from fatigue and want of provisions. On March 6 the Mexicans assaulted in force and were twice driven back by the little band with heavy losses. A hand to hand fight ensued in which, lacking time to load, the Texans clubbed their muskets and fought desperately until only six were left alive. These, under Colonels David Crockett and Travis, surrendered under promise of protection but were killed by Santa Anna's orders. Some women, a negro and one child alone were spared. The bodies of the dead were collected by the Mexicans, mutilated and burned. A few weeks later Santa Anna was routed with immense loss and himself captured. This was at the battle of San Jacinto, when the rallying cry of the Texans was "Remember the Alamo."

Brownsville, to which two batteries of the 5th field artillery, was recently ordered from Fort Sill, Okla., and in which we now feel a personal interest, is located on the Mexican border, in the extreme southeastern part of Texas, and has a population of approximately 10,000. Metamoros, a Mexican city of approximately 15,000, is located on the opposite side of the Rio Grande. When Harold Week left San Benito which is about 10 miles from Brownsville, a few weeks ago, the United States troops stationed at Brownsville consisted of two regiments, the 3rd cavalry and the 4th infantry. The 18th infantry was also on the Rio Grande near there and two battalions of Texas militia were stationed at San Benito.—Stevens Journal.

A Brazilian Household Pet.
Brazilians train a snake called the ghibla as a rat catcher. It is fifteen feet long, is harmless to the human being, becomes quite a household pet, is lazy in the daytime, but at night roams about the house in quest of its prey—rats. These animals it promptly kills by twisting their necks. When Brazilians have to pass from room to room in the dark they first put on their slippers. It would not be pleasant to plant one's bare feet on a cold, slimy snake of that size.

Industry and practically the one upon which all others are based. Great advances have been made in this primary industry and in some sections have been effective, but the great mass of agricultural production is as yet unmoved. The new generation in that field wants to get the best and latest. This society will seek to co-ordinate all that is being done and bring it closer to the individual farmer. When this work is well done the problem of how we are to stop the rush from farm to city will have been solved, and that solution will carry with it the solution of some economic and social problems beginning to disturb city life.

You do not find loose, hard stems or short cuts in NIGGER HAIR—no short leaves, broken leaf or hard stems are used in making NIGGER HAIR.

The government maintains a fire department in the village.

Nearly all of the 5,000 barbers in the state have renewed their annual licenses from the board of health. Old licenses expired Friday. There are 4,500 master barbers, paying an annual fee of $1 and about 600 journeymen barbers, for whom the assessment is $5.00 per year. From the fund thus created the expenses of the barber inspection work throughout the state are paid.

HOW would some of our "pork" fed congressmen relish being limited to half an ounce of butter per day? That's all some of the National Guardsmen receive.

IF it is true that a National Guardman is not legally required should he be held up to ridicule and even court martial if he refuses?

WHY should a member of the

NOTHING has happened that makes it more evident that city wa-that a business concern is using a out." This industry should be charged for use of water in the past

MAY WITHDRAW ARMY
PERSHING'S army has moved northward to a point 100 miles from the American border, on orders from Washington.

It is predicted, at Washington and along the border, that the American forces will soon be withdrawn from Mexican soil.

Carranza, it is said, has given satisfactory if unofficial assurances that hereafter Mexican troops will suppress disorder in northern Mexico, while American troops, from positions on the American side of the line, guard against raids of American territory by gangs of bandits such as Villa led into Col-

SAYS STATE IS SHORT

"The balance in the general fund of the state at the close of the fiscal year, June 30, 1915, was $3, 211,464. The balance at the close of the present fiscal year, June 30, 1916, is $2,069,728, a difference of $1,141,736. Instead of saving $840, 000, as Gov. Philipp boasted when the tax levy was made, there is a shortage of $390,000, over and above the reduction in the state tax," said L. B. Nagler, assistant secretary of state, a LaFollette partisan.
"Accurate comparison of the records will prove that the present balance is inflated and does not represent the actual condition of the general fund, as compared with what it was at the beginning of the fiscal year," he continued. "There is due from the general fund to the hinder twine revolving fund $124, 000 more than was due said fund at the beginning of the year. There is also due the several counties 75 per cent of the motor vehicle license fees, amounting to over $400,
000. This reduces the apparent general fund balance to about $1, 600,000."

"From the fact that the bill for printing the statutes of 1915 has not been presented for payment, it may be deduced that other large bills against the state are being withheld for the purpose of making a better showing in the general fund."—Milwaukee Journal.

HOPE AND INDICATIONS

PRESIDENT Wilson is still watchfully waiting as regards Mexico, and there is a large element in the country that is in hearty accord with him. It would be worse than folly to plunge into a war with Mexico before having tried all possible means to render unnecessary a declaration of war.

For many people there have been plenty of reasons for entering Mexico, and staying there long enough to teach those people how to organize and carry on a stable government, one that would preserve order and make it possible for the development of one of the richest portions of North America. Mexico needs nothing more than that sort of instruction, and this country knows very well that it would not consent to any other power performing the task. If it is ever performed it will be performed by the United States.

After all is said and done, it is a fact that the United States is preparing against war with Mexico.
Contracts for horses for cavalry and artillery and mules for use in transportation, which call for an expenditure of ten million dollars, have been closed; rations of all kinds have been taken to the border sufficient to feed an army of 200,000 for several months. Arms and equipments of all kinds have been carried there for use in emergencies. Artillery, both light and heavy, has been transported to the border, and is in such condition that it can be used at a moment's notice. More general officers have been appointed, and the work of burying from 75,000 to 100,000 members of the National guard to the border is going on with all possible speed.
All of these things indicate a coming storm in Mexico, yet every lover of peace and justice and honor still hopes that war will be avoided.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Antiquity of Earrings.

The very earliest mention of earrings is to be found in the book of Genesis.
Jacob, it will be remembered, on reaching Bethel buried certain strange idols, among them some earrings belonging to his family. Doubtless these ornaments were regarded purely in a propitatory light as amulets or talismans, such being still their principal office in the east today. That they are of eastern origin is certain, and among orientals, with the exception of Greeks and Hebrews, it has always been the custom for both sexes to wear them, while frequently only one ear was adorned.
Among other races, however, earrings were always worn in pairs and by the women only.

POLICE ARREST NIGHT PROWLER

A bold night prowler came to grief late Wednesday night at the Reed residence on S. King street when he was discovered by Howard Reed Jr., sneaking about the house, probably with the intention of forcing an entrance. Mr. Reed struck at the fellow through a screen window.

When Officers O'Brien and Shepard arrived on the scene they found the intruder to be the same man, who earlier in the evening was caught prowling about the residence of P. J. Cain on North Brown street. At that time he feigned intoxication and said that he was looking for a hotel.

In municipal court this morning
the offender gave the name of Ed.
Harris and claimed that he came here Wednesday afternoon from Park Falls. He told Judge C. F.
Smith that he had no intention of committing crime and merely became lost while under the influence of liquor.

The case against Harris was continued until next Saturday afternoon.

AT THE COZY

At the Cozy, Friday, Kitty Gordon, the great emotional actress, will appear in "Her Maternal Right."

Jack Treadway, on the death of his father finds that he has no funds, and secures a position as teller in a bank. He meets Nina Strang, an actress, and he lavishes money and jewels on her, but in order to keep up with her pace he is forced to make false entries in his books and is soon indebted to the bank for a considerable amount.

Nina meets Amos Matson, a millionaire, and through her fickleness throws off the old love for the new.
Jack, realizing what a fool he has been, turns over a new leaf, but the shortage on his books is a constant worry. He meets Mary Winslow, and after a short courtship they are married.

Accidentally one day Mary hears about Jack's affairs with Nina, and she follows him to Nina's apartment, where she overhears a conversation between them which clears everything in her mind, and through her pluck and courage, Jack is able to secure from Nina the money he so foolishly lavished on her, thus making up the shortage.

CUPID CAPTURES TWO MORE VICTIMS

Miss Myrtle Elizabeth Jewell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C.
Jewell, old and prominent residents of this city, became the wife of Mr. Robert V. Rouser, of the town of Pelican, at St. Mary's pa-ronage, at an early hour Saturday morning. Miss Marie Jewell, sister of the bride, and Mr. Charles Jewell, cousin, were the attendants. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. Father
W. A. Beaudette.

Following the wedding ceremony breakfast was served at the residence of the bride's parents, 626 Eastern avenue. Mr. and Mrs.
Rouser departed on the 10:26 North western train for a trip to New London and Milwaukee and within a few days will return to Rhinelander to reside.

The bride is one of this city's pleasing young ladies and is popular among a large number of friends. She is a graduate of the Rhinelander high school and Oneida County Training school and for the last two years was one of Oneida county's teaching force. That she will make an ideal wife goes without saying.

Although Mr. Rouser is only slightly known to the people of Rhinelander, he is said to be a most worthy young man and has made a favorable impression among all who have met him. May he and his wife have a long and happy wedded life.

Miss Marie Hnilicka of Green Bay is a guest at the Osborne home on Phillip street. Miss Hnilicka was one of a party of seven Green Bay young ladies that spent a week camping on the Wisconsin river here last year.

RELEASING MARIAN

By WILLISTON GRAY.

Jeffries got the news on Wednesday. The letter lay with a few others under his door when he reached the office, the lonesome, dusty little old law office where he had waited for clients week in, week out.

He picked it up and read it through as soon as he got inside, his hat still on the back of his head, his cane under one arm. It was brief, but quite to the point and satisfactory. It merely notified him that under the terms of the will of Horace Barclay, his granduncle, he would receive $45,000. After a fellow has grubbed along on about one hundredth of that amount a year, it takes time to get a focus on such a situation. And about the last angle of his thoughts was Marian. Of course there was Marian. She had to be considered, but he only thought of her in a vague, detached sort of way.

Tentatively, he was engaged to marry Marian Seward. Yesterday he would have put it differently. He would have said that some day he was going to marry Marian.

Naturally, when he had come to Lagrange to live, he had looked up Marian and her mother. They were distinctly related, second cousins, or perhaps third. She was interesting, too, with her big, gray eyes and chestnut hair and the deep, elusive dimple in one cheek that only showed when she was amused. He almost dreaded telling Marian of his legacy. Not but that she would be glad for him, but it might worry her. Forty-five thousand in a town like Lagrange was equal to five hundred thousand in a large city.

He did not call on Marian that evening. The next day when he rang up to speak to her, Mrs. Seward said she was away for a few days, but would be back on Monday. He did not mind. It would give him time to think matters over. That afternoon, as he was passing by the City hall, Deering came hurrying down the broad steps, stopped at seeing him and came over.

"I want to have a talk with you, Walt," he said, point-blank. "Something important."

"Come over to my office," said Jeffries generally. Deering was city attorney—not a large office in a town like Lagrange, but one bespeaking the confidence of his constituents. They went back to the little dusty office, and Deering sat on the end of a table while he talked.

"You see, it's this way. I'm in love with Marian. I guess I've been in love with her since I was in rompers. And I'd have stood a show only that we had a little quarrel and I went away, like a fool, to the Northwest. When I came back last spring I found you here, and you had the inside track. But I knew she still cared for me." He held his head up, and there was a ringing note of surety in his tone that bothered Jeffries. Marian had never mentioned Bob Deering.

"Well?"

"Well? I asked her all over again last night at the university lecture, and she told me she was almost engaged to you. Is that right?"

"She asked me to wait a year," said Jeffries. "If she could care for me in that time, we were to be married."

"Exactly—If! Well, she cares for me, Walt. That's all there is about it, and it's breaking her heart to have to tell you so. She's gone away for a few days, and I made up my mind I'd come straight to you like a man and have it out. If her happiness is at stake it doesn't matter about us, does it?"

"You mean about me," said Jeffries dryly. "Does she know that you were coming to me?"

"No."

"But you're quite sure she cares for you?"

"I know it, always knew it."

Jeffries smoked in silence a minute. He felt uplifted and magnanimous. He would give happiness to Marian. Of course when she knew the truth—that he had forty-five thousand—she would perhaps regret, but that was not his fault. He smiled.

"Go ahead and win her Bob, and good luck to you."

Two days later, Marian returned home, and that night Bob told her. She listened in silence.

"I feel like a dog now to have interfered, dear," he said. "I didn't know he'd fallen heir to this fortune. I only knew I loved you and wanted you released."

"He was quite willing, wasn't he?" asked Marian, teasingly.

"I don't want to think anything about him. I want you to marry me in a month's time."

"Suppose you went on, from one office to another and became very successful?"

"If I became president I'd have the sweetest and best wife in the whole blamed country," said Bob impetuously. Marian laid her hands on his shoulders and smiled mischievously.

"We needn't worry, Bob. I didn't want to tell you yet, but here it is. You know Walt and I are distant cousins, and his granduncle is mine, too, but my father was his favorite and he has left me seventy-five thousand dollars. I went away to see mother's lawyer and arrange about the estate."

Bob was silent for a minute, holding her hands as they lay on his shoulders. Then he laughed.

"Will Walt survive the shock?" asked Marian, teasingly.

WARNING!

All persons are warned not to deposit rubbish in the street as it tends to impede traffic and clog the sewers. Section 4 of Chapter 8, of the city ordinances forbids such acts and provides a fine of not less than three dollars, or more than thirty dollars penalty for each violation. The principal provisions of that ordinance are as follows:

"No person shall cast, place or deposit, or cause to be cast, placed or deposited upon any street, alley, sidewalk, gutter or public grounds within the city of Rhinelander, any timber, wood, lumber, ashes, rubbish, offal, vegetables, paper, shavings, grass or earth, or anything or substance whatever which may obstruct any street, alley, sidewalk, gutter or public ground or impede travel thereon."

Recently there have been many violations of this ordinance by persons permitting wood to drop from wagons, and failing to pick it up, and by throwing grass in the street. All public spirited citizens realize the importance of this and will govern themselves accordingly. Violations in the future will be promptly prosecuted

SCORES OF STATE CITIES GO "DRY"

Scores of saloons in Wisconsin cities which voted "dry" at the elections on April 4th, went out of business Friday. In fifteen other cities which voted from dry to wet, the saloonmen started into business again after an enforced vacation. The cities which went dry at midnight last night are: Arpin, Augustus, Black River Falls, Boyceville, Town of Bosconov, Brockway, Dell Center, Brownstown, Caloma, Cameron, Cleveland, Darion, Downing, Eagle, Ellsworth, Emerald, Fall River, Fairchild, Green Lake, Granton, Hudson, Hayward, Kingston, Laona, Merrimack, Menominee, New Richmond, New Auburn, Platteville, Village of Plover, Randolph, Rice Lake, Superior, Whitewater, White River, and Westfield. The cities which Friday reinstated the saloons were: Bayfield, City of Bosconov, Chaseburg, Chill Desoto, Fildfield, Ladysmith, Mondovi, Marshall, Norwalk, Three Lakes, Turtle Lake, Carona, Wautoma.

Superior was the largest city to go into the dry column. The vote was very close.

At Racine the saloons will close in the future at 8 o'clock on Sunday evenings and cabarets will be cut out entirely. This was decided upon voluntarily by the saloonkeepers.

At Menominee, the saloonkeepers have gone into the retail grocery and dry goods business and in other dry lines. Their aim is to undersell other merchants at 5 per cent. Owners of buildings in which saloons were located have agreed to allow the use of their saloons, rent free, during the next twelve months.

(Minocqua Times)

The Jossart Steam Roller was taken to the ball park Tuesday and has been used since in leveling and preparing the surface of the field for the games to be played Sunday and on the Fourth. This will be the first good base ball diamond that this city has ever had.

A fence is being constructed on the road side of the park. Bleachers and parking space for autos will be ready for the Fourth of July. Summer people will be accommodated by a dock and landing which will be built at the rear of the field on Clawson's Bay.

Lyle Schilling who has been employed at the Bassett Garage was forced to give up his position Tuesday and go to Milwaukee to consult a specialist in regards to his knee which has been bothering him for some months. He was advised by local physicians that the trouble was of a serious nature and that an operation would perhaps be necessary.

Chairman Torpy informs us that the paving of Oneida street will be started in a week or so, the delay being caused by not having the profile. The side boulevard and curbing will be put in first and also the sewer must be laid on a block of the street. The paving of this business street will make Minocqua rather citified.

Guyton T. Fisher of this city who has been attending the University of Wisconsin for the past five years graduated from the Law College of that school last Wednesday and was admitted to the Bar on the same day. Guy returned home Friday for a short vacation before commencing practice.

SUBSCRIBE TO SOLDIERS' FUND; A WORTHY CAUSE

(By L. B. Woodruff)

The National Guard of the State of Wisconsin and other states has by order of the President of the United States been called to the colors for active service and actuated by patriotism and a sense of duty the members of the National Guard, in responding to the President's call, not only offer themselves to the service of their country, but also forego their usual enjoyments and the means of livelihood of themselves and their families, and the sacrifice thus demanded and unhesitatingly accepted by the few, is for the benefit of all.

The burdens incident to military service should not be permitted to rest exclusively upon those who render it, but should, so far as possible, be distributed among the people, in order that those who respond to the call of patriotism shall not suffer from loss of employment and earnings, nor their families be deprived of support.

The Advancement Association of Rhinelander is submitting a plan to the citizens of our city whereby a sufficient fund of money will be subscribed, to meet the needs of those who will require this assistance.

A committee has been appointed consisting of three members of the association and two from the V. N. A., said committee to have full charge of all monies subscribed and to distribute same to those who are entitled, at such time or times, as in their judgment, it becomes necessary. The worthiness of the movement is unquestioned and should meet the hearty response of every patriotic citizen.

THE SOLDIERS' FUND

I wish to take advantage of the opportunity offered by the "Relief Committee" to aid in caring for such families of soldiers of the Wisconsin National Guard as may be left in want by the departure of the men for mobilization camps or the Mexican border.

For this purpose I pledge myself to give $..... each month for a period of twelve months. My understanding is that this money is to be used only for the aid of dependents whose needs are known to the relief committee and whose names will not be published under any circumstances. This pledge to become void in the event of the National Guards' return or of adequate state or federal action for the relief of these families.

I am willing to have the secretary of the Relief Committee notify me each month by mail of this obligation.

Name .....
Home Address .....
Business Address .....

Fill this out and send it to either of the following committee viz: E. O. Brown, Chas. F. Smith, J. O. Moen, or leave same at either of the two banks, newspaper offices or the Advancement association office, City Hall.

DO REJECTED MEN STAY IN SERVICE

Camp Douglas Reservation, Wis. July 4.—Are the men rejected by the federal surgeons and discharged from active service following the muster of the Wisconsin guard into the United States army automatically dismissed from further service for the state? This is a problem which the Wisconsin National guard officials have so far been unable to decide for themselves.

Under the federal law creating the United States National guard out of the separate state guards the men rejected are returned to their home posts by the state and paid for their time by the state. They are given honorable discharge from the United States service, but whether this frees them from answering future calls by the state is not known.

The members of that part of the guard accepted for service when they return to the state will be permitted to return to their usual walks of life just as though they were in the state service. They will be subject to call by the nation for active service for three years, and as reserves for three years more.—Walter B. Martin in Milwaukee Sentinel.

TIRE CHANGING EASY

D. J. Raymond of Crandon is the inventor of an automobile tire operation. Large manufacturers of automobile accessories have endeavored to secure the right to place the rim on the market, but it is understood that Mr. Raymond is considering the proposition of organizing a stock company for the purpose of manufacturing the device. Should this movement be launched it is probable that Mr. Raymond will interest Rhinelander capital in subscribing to stock in the company.

The rim is loosened or tightened as desired by a lever. It can be decreased several inches in size allowing a tire to be easily slipped off. To remove a casing from the rim requires about one and one-half minute and about two minutes are consumed in removing the inner tube and making the entire change.

That the rim is a most practical device and solves the tire changing problem to a nicety is the opinion of autoists who have witnessed demonstrations of its

At 3:30 P. M. each day a story and play hour will be held for the children. Mothers are not only requested, but urged to have all children under ten or twelve years of age attend this hour instead of remaining for the lecture, making possible for all attending a greater appreciation of the lecture.

A morning play and story hour will be organized as early in the week as possible.

Please come on time to all programs. Get the habit.
